A Michigan Man Gets One for Being Hurt | West, who were shot and killed while re-While Getting in His Bunk.

ANOTHER CASE NOT QUITE LIKE THAT

ANOTHER CASE NOT QUITE LIKE THAT

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Assistant Secretary Bussey to-day rendered three pension decisions, in which is involved the important question of when may and when may not a soldier be considered "in the line of duty?" The first case is that of W. H. Brokenshaw, late of Company H, Twentyninth Michigan Volunteers, who applied, Brokenshaw, late of Company H, Twenty-ninth Michigan Volunteers, who applied for an invalid pension. The basis of this claim was an injury to the left side, incurred in the service at Jackson, Mich., about March 26, 1865, said injury having been "caused by three soldiers jumping on claimant while he was climbing into his bunk, crushing the ribs of the left side, just below the heart." The claim was rejected by Commissioner Black upon the ground that "claimant was not injured in Bussey, in his decision to-day, overrules the former decision, and directs that Brokenshaw's name be placed upon the pension rolls, rating his disability in accordance with law. He accordance with law. He accordance with law.

rolls, rating his disability in accordance with law. He says:

In the original Ammerman decision (recently reversed), as in the preceding case of Harrington, the thepartment declined to recognize the doctrine of contributory negligence as an element in the line of duty, and failed, therefore, to notice either the guiltiness or the innocence of the injured party. It is immemorial and true doctrine of the common law that "the plaintiff has no remedy, if his negligence, in any degree, contributed to the accident" of which he complains, and whereby he suffered injury; but the converse of this doctrine is equally true, viz: that, if the negligence of the other party was THE SOLE PROXIMATE CAUSE of the injury, then the injured party may re-cover. As now correctly held by the depart-ment, Ammerman was "in his proper place, ready to perform such duty as he might be ready to perform such duty as he might be called upon to do," and was guiltless of any act contributory to it, inasmuch as "the injury alleged as the ground of pension happened to him without any fault or neglect on his part." and hence, he was entitled to a remedy for the result. That which, in this particular, was true of Ammerman, seems to have been true, with increased emphasis, of Brokenshaw, the claimant in the pending motion. Brokenshaw was clearly in the line of duty—not passive only, but active duty—masmuch as he was in the act of "climbing into his bunk," the place of customary rest, which it was his duty to use and which was provided for him by the regulations of the service—when he received the alleged injury; the said unjury, though not a necessary result, was, as to claimant, an unavoidable incident of the service, it having been caused, without any provocation on his part, by "three soldiers, names unknown, imping on him while he was climbing into his bunk." He was thus in no degree a contributor to his own injury, but was merely the helpless recipient of an irresistible assault. His title to remedy is plain, but it does not lie against his assailants. It lies in the system of pensions provided for disability incurred in the service and line of duty. He was "in his proper piace, ready to perform such duty as he might be called upon to do," and the injury alleged as the ground of pension happened to him "without any fault or neglect on his part." The doctrine which the department now avows is a fundamental rule of justice, and the application of it to the claimant in this, as in all similar cases, seems to be required by the true spirit and intent of the pension system.

QUITE AN OPPOSITE CASE. called upon to do," and was guiltless of any QUITE AN OPPOSITE CASE.

Another case is that of C. H. Sedgwick, late midshipman United States steamer "Santee" and United States steamer "Con-The claimant in this case was injured by a kick from a comrade on board ship. He was at the time, to use his own language, "twitting and teasing" his com-rade, who, becoming inceased thereat, ad-ministered to him the kick from which his disability resulte. The Assistant Secretary in this case sustains a former decision rejecting the application, and adds:

Here it is apparent that the claimant not ply contributed directly to produce the cause only contributed directly to produce the cause of his injury, but that he was engaged at the time in a manner that was manifestly in wich at the rules and regulations of the service, and subversive of discipline and good order, and the injury resulting from such conduct on his part was unquestionably not incurred in the line of duty.

The third case is that of Elizabeth Hull, wildow of William Hull, and line who did not the line of the service of the line wildow of William Hull, and line who line the line of the line of the line of the line who line wildow of William Hull and line who line the line of the line widow of William Hull, a soldier who died in a military prison at Nashville, of inflammation of the pleurs, contracted in the prison. The soldier, it appears from the evidence, was arrested and confined in the prison for being absent from his company and regiment without permission. In this case Mr. Bussey says:

To entitle a widow to a pension, the wound, the injury or the disease which caused the husband's death must have been connected, as a result, with the compliance by him with the requirements of military duty. Such connection between the fatal disease and the service did not exist in this case.

The former decision is adhered to.

You Need It Now

To impart strength and to give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla, It seems peculiarly adapted to overcome that tired feeling caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system, it purifies and repovates the blood. We earn estly urge the large army of clerks, bookkeepers, school teachers, housewives, operatives and all others who have been closely confined during the winter and who need a good spring medicine, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good.

"Every spring for years I have made it a practice to take from three to five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I know it purifies the hiood and thoroughly cleanses the system of all impurities. That languid feeling, sometimes called 'spring fever,' will never visit the system that has been properly cared for by this never-failing remedy." W. H. LAWERNOE, Editor Agricultural Epitomist, Indianapolis.
